Defunct and Renamed Counties:

In North Carolina’s history, several counties were created that later became defunct or were renamed. North Carolina also created three counties in the 1780s and 1790s that are now part of Tennessee.

Albemarle County[110], extinct 1689

Bath County, extinct after 1724
Bute County, divided into Franklin and Warren counties in 1779.
Clarendon County, abandoned by 1667.
Dobbs County, abolished in 1791.

Glasgow County, renamed Greene County in 1799.

Pamtecoolough (or Pamticough) County, renamed Beaufort County in 1712.
Tryon County, divided into Lincoln and Rutherford Counties in 1779.

Western counties now in Tennessee:

District of Washington (formerly the Watauga Settlement), annexed to North Carolina in 1776, name changed to Washington County in 1777 and ceded to the U.S. Government in 1790.

Sullivan County, formed in 1779 from Washington County, now Tennessee.

Davidson County, formed from Washington County in 1783, now Tennessee.
