Showing Interest in My Friends

I like to show interest in my friends. I like to show interest in Isabel.

I like to show interest in Cheikh. When I show interest in my friends, I can ask them questions like “What are you doing?” or “Can I play with you?” I can also say something about what they’re doing, like “That’s cool!” or “I like to ____ too!” It’s not nice to talk like my friends or copy what they’re doing. When I talk like my friends, they might think I’m making fun of them, and this can make them sad and hurt their feelings. When I copy what my friends are doing, I might make my friends mad or not want to be my friend anymore. I don’t want to make my friends sad or mad. When I show interest in my friends by asking them questions and saying something about what they’re doing, my friends will want to talk to me and this will make me happy! 😊
